Editorial Review

Review

From the reviews of the second edition:

"This update of a comprehensive book on modern vascular laboratory diagnostic techniques has 14 new chapters The intended audience is physicians interested in using the vascular laboratory to guide clinical decisions. The book contains several technical tips and a chapter on ultrasound physics more useful to vascular technicians and physician directors of vascular laboratories. Each major section also has an introductory chapter which is more directed at students, residents, or nurse practitioners." (Gale Lynn Tang, Doody's Review Services, February, 2009)

From the Back Cover

Noninvasive Vascular Diagnosis is the definitive text on the current techniques used in assessing vascular disorders. The Editors and their international board of Contributors comprehensively cover all aspects of noninvasive evaluation of the circulatory system in the extremities.

Readers of this new and extensively revised edition have at their fingertips authoritative information on the imaging of the peripheral vasculature. They are also guided through the establishment and accreditation of a vascular laboratory and introduced to the theories behind diagnostic testing. There has been expansion of the book by the inclusion of special sections dedicated to the practical clinical management of patients through the vascular laboratory. The book is therefore invaluable to all those working in vascular laboratories as well as cardiologists, general surgeons involved in vascular surgery and the vascular surgery and medicine community in general.

About the Author

John J. Bergan MD is founder of The Vein Institute in La Jolla and is a staff surgeon at Scripps Memorial Hospital, La Jolla, California, USA. Ali F. AbuRahma, M.D. is Professor of Surgery at the Robert C Byrd Health Sciences Center of West Virginia University, Charleston, West Virginia, USA. Dr Bergan is a world-renowned vascular surgeon who has already authored or edited twenty-nine textbooks, nine of which are on venous disorders, including, for Springer, Chronic Venous Insufficiency: Diagnosis and Treatment with Jeffrey Ballad (1-85233-172-0) and Atlas of Endoscopic Perforator Vein Surgery with Peter Gloviczki (3-540-76171-3). Dr Bergan and Dr AbuRahma have collaborated previously and were the editors of the Springer title Noninvasive Vascular Diagnosis (1-85233-128-3), which was published in November 1999.
